3G Waves Causes Headaches, Sharpens Memory
Posted by timothy on Wednesday October 01, @10:11AM from the like-a-lot-but-different dept.
Linus writes "MobileTracker noted that an interesting study on 3G cellular networks has been released out of Amsterdam. The findings were that exposure to 3G waves can cause headaches and nausea (conventional cellular service doesn't have these effects). It also found that those same subjects had better memory and reaction times (conventional cellular networks have the same effect)."
